Stratford Central Secondary School

October 17, 2016

Greetings from Stratford Central

In the September 2016 newsletter, information was conveyed that interim (progress) reports were to be handed out to students on October 14.

At the beginning of October, we were informed that the software used in the past to generate interim report cards was no longer available. As a result, the school board decided that schools would send an "at risk" report to parents through the mail if their son/daughter was struggling in one or more courses.

This information was communicated on the school website by clicking on the word "the Buzz" followed by clicking on "Parent Night is October 20" tab.

The school regrets that this information was not easy to find on the website and apologizes for any confusion that may have resulted.

Bottom line is that a parent should receive an "at-risk" report in the mail prior to October 20, if their son/daughter is struggling in a course or courses. If no report is received, then your daughter/son is progressing well in her/his courses.

We hope to see parents out on Thursday evening this week.

Regards,

K. Mills
Principal
